> Washington, Feb. 1.-The Republican nembers of the house of representatives held a caucus tonight to consider a line of policy to be adopted concerning the fleged distranchisement of voters in the South. The cuncus listed from 8 o'check until shortly after it o'clock, when it was determined to adjourn for one week to consider more fully the different propceitions brought forward. The main disquasion of the meeting turned on a resenation offered by Representative Crampacker, of Indiana, providing for the profitment of a special committee of the house to investigate questions of distranchisement, and to report remedies, to the hours. This brought out several other propositions, mainly from southern Republicants, who favored a strong federal etection law.
